Leaving the war in Syria, Muzon and her family stayed in a refugee camp in Jordan. As Muzon continued going to school in the camp, she saw that many of her fellow pupils stopped school, often girls. She heard about one girl who had left school and was trying to sell her schoolbooks. Muzon found her and made her change her mind. Her friendship with Malala, a Pakistan girl who fights for women's right to education as well, made Muzon stronger to fight for girls and young women's right to education.
